Making A Difference

“It is no proof of a man’s understanding to be able to confirm whatever he pleases, but to be able to discern that what is true is true, and that what is false is false; this is the mark of intelligence”

— Ralph Waldo Emerson

No matter what we say or believe, see or experience, the world is not flat. No matter what we say or believe, see or experience, the self is not defective. We can say what we want to say and believe what we want to believe, but the intelligent person is one who endeavors to not only determine what is true and what is not, but then act accordingly. We must think of the self as perfect and complete, regardless of what is going on in our experience, and we must think of the self as that which can and does — by changing its thought — change its experience. Anybody can think. To think correctly is an act of intelligence. Anybody can believe. To believe in what is true is an act of intelligence. Anybody can identify the truth. To allow the truth to change the way we think, what we say, and the way we act — this is the highest mark of intelligence.

THE MARK OF INTELLIGENCE
Dr. David J. Walker

Use your intelligence to identify what is true and what is false; what contributes to your well-being and what doesn’t; what is worthwhile and what isn’t. Don’t fight what doesn’t belong.

Discard what doesn’t belong. Make a greater demand upon your own intelligence, and experience your own perfect self.

SPIRIT HAS SET THE STAMP OF INDIVIDUALITY UPON ITSELF AND CALLED IT YOU.

— DR. ERNEST HOLMES

I BELIEVE IN THE POWER OF GOOD

The Infinite Mind is Always Present and fully functioning. This is the Power of God, and it is, always has been, and always will be expressed as the completeness of ME. In this very moment I affirm, declare, embody and accept the Power of Good is at work through me and is vibrating throughout the Universe. I unequivocally consciously participate in the Creation of my experiences in my life, by knowing, speaking, hearing, and radiating the Truth. I release any attachment, fear, doubt, or worry to any physical expression in my life. I embrace Faith as my "State of Being." I trust that God is always doing It's part in the evolutionary nature of my life and I move through my life with an open heart, an open mind, and open arms. I accept my Good knowing I have done my mental and Spiritual work, and let it unfold gracefully. This is my truth, and So It IS!

— Rev. Keith Cox

Emerson's Essays: Spiritual Laws

BRUCE CARSE

"By doing his own work he unfolds himself."

Revelation of my-Self unfolds with every muscle I exert, every limb I stretch, and every grasp, within and beyond my reach. Without action, I would be a dormant seed of the whole world, ready and poised to blossom but with no fragrance, no flower, no ripening.

All of the richness of life comes to me from doing my own work, taking action on my own behalf. It is through action that I come to know my own character, my own will, my own loving embrace. It is through my own work that I make my contribution to the greater whole, the greater Self, the greater nature of all life. As I do my own work, as I take action, I reveal my own inner beauty to the world; beauty that exists nowhere else and at no other time; beauty that is uniquely mine to experience, mine to reveal to others, mine to celebrate. My work is God's work and we shall do it together as we always have.

Love Is A Healing Power

BUNNY HULL, RSP

In the twenty-seven plus years I've been a student of Science of Mind, I have used spiritual mind treatment to establish a consciousness of healing. We use the law impersonally and it works. You want success, you establish a consciousness of success, money — a consciousness of money, health — a consciousness of health, and so on. What about love? How does that fit in? Dr. Walker once said that most problems come from a lack of self-acceptance. I believe love creates a pathway to self-acceptance. When you give love, when you receive love, when you heal with love, you tap into a healing power that underlies all demonstration. When you love something or someone without expecting a payoff, when you can surrender your defenses and receive love when it is offered to you, that ebb and flow causes your own self-acceptance or self-love to take root and become fertile ground for your creations. Let love back your words. It is the oneness of all life, the common bond, the Divine connection that exists between all things and all people. Be it, feel it, live it. Love is a healing power.

Promise yourself . . .

. . . To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind. To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet. To make all your friends feel that there is something in them. To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true. To think only of the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best. To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own. To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future. To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile. To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others. To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

— Christian D. Larson

Lessons of Truth

Rev. Marian G. Moon

TRUTH

The search for Truth is an eternal one. Its depths are infinite. It can never be totally fathomed. And that's what makes man's search for it exciting. There is always more to know.

This more resides in the innermost depths of our Being awaiting our discovery. It comes in flashes of insight. It comes through spiritual discernment. And it comes to those who are willing to explore their own nature.

We are divine. We have infinite potential which can be realized if we are willing to change belief patterns that lock us into ignorance.

With each new insight we gain ground into inner space and find potential we never knew existed.

Robert Browning caught this essence when he wrote: "Truth is within ourselves; it takes no rise from outward things, whatever you may believe." Opening a way for this imprisoned splendor rewards us with clear insight and intuitive knowing.

Our search reveals what has always been true, that this divinity within can be accessed, and consciousness expanded. Inner revelation does set us free from bondage states. It allows us to experience who we really are and our potential for greater self-expression and creativity.

I Am

JAY K. JOHNSON

I am that I am, that I am is me.
 I am, present tense of the verb, to be.
 I am is not future nor anything past,
 Alpha Omega — neither first nor the last.
 I am that I am and always will be.
 The Life of the Father living through me.
 A singular beam of eternal light.
 A beacon of Spirit destroying the night.
 I am that I am, that am-ness inside.
 The thing itself that gives me my pride.
 The thought of individualized being, that's me.
 I'm all the ideas that ever will be.

The Consciousness That Heals

KIM GARFIELD

It's taken me most of my life to finally realize that the only way to develop and sustain the Healing Consciousness is practice, practice, practice. It requires total commitment, coupled with the understanding that it's a full-time job. A lifetime job. An inside job.

Think of it as preparing a spiritual gourmet meal. First, one must have the necessary ingredients: a dash of desire, an ounce of faith, a tablespoon of courage, a pound of perseverance. Blend the ingredients with Science of Mind study, daily treatment work and a generous helping of honest self-talk. Stir, don't shake.

Now go out and share the meal — at work, in relationships, with all people and in all activities. Apply the recipe in everyday living, and everything else is icing on the cake.

Remember: this is not The Last Supper — it's the entrée to a delicious life!
